CIRCUIT COURT

JANUARY 24, 1937.

A short time after, Mr. Caldwell rose, and addressed the court as follows:

To the judges of the circuit court of the United States, in and for the district of Columbia.

For and on behalf of Erick Bollman &
Samuel Swartwout

Attorney.

All the facts contained in that petition, except one, are already before the court, either by the official information of the district attorney, or in the documents which he has presented. The fact of their being deprived of the benefit of counsel, rests upon the authority of the petition. I could easily be substantiated by affidavit, but I do not consider it material to support the present motion; there being sufficient disclosed by the district attorney for the court to issue the writ prayed for. The court is informed, that the petitioners were arrested by general Wilkinson in New Orleans, that they were sent from thence unthat the disturbances in the western country, are, by this time, quelled. The gathering storm has burst without our scarcely hearing of it. We have not only been removed from danger, but almost from the apprehension of it. We may now permit the laws to take their regular and quiet course. We may now permit the prisoners to enjoy those invaluable privileges, which are secured by the laws and constitution of our country, to the meanest individual, to the most petty offender.

ceeding which I propose is in perfect accordance and harmony with his motion — It will be in aid of that motion. He wish.

THURSDAY January 29.

A short conversation having taken place between Mr. Dorsey and Mr. Jones, with respect to the counsel entitled to the right of closing the argument, the attorney general (Mr. Rulney) suggested his opinion that the proceedings of the court on this preliminary question ought to be on ex parte grounds. That it was neither consistent with the principles of the constitution, the practice of courts, or even with humanity, that an argument should be made by the counsel for the accused in this incipient stage of the business, which would necessarily tend to a certain degree to excite prejudice which might operate ultimately to their disservice.

Mr. Rodney replied.
The court then gave it as their opinion that counsel should be heard.

He was followed by Mr. Jones on the other side, who terminated his remarks about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The

ON FRIDAY Mr. Lee adduced a number of additional authorities and made some further remarks.

The volume of matter adduced on this occasion was so great that scarcely a brief outline of it can be expected at present. We shall content ourselves with touching on the most prominent points.

In this case there was no probable cause supported by oath or affirmation; and therefore the messages of the president were entitled to no weight in a court of justice.

But even if this insuperable objection was over-ruled and the depositions received as testimony, it was contended that they did not establish the commission of a single overt act of treason by Aaron Burr, much less did they establish the implication of the accused in any such act.

The counsel on the part of the prosecution, maintained that to a certain extent, in the incipient stages of prosecution, the

This probable cause it was allowed must be supported by oath or affirmation. This had been abundantly done in the decisions of General Wilkinson, General Eaton and other persons. The criminal intent of Aaron Burr was demonstrated in his conversations with general Eaton, and all that was besides necessary was the commission of some overt act, which would constitute levying war against the United States. That such acts had been

They contended that the different territories of the United States were in law to be considered as one family, the officers of which were bound to respect and take notice of the acts of each other without any of those authentications required in one state to the official acts of another. They all derived their authority either mediately or immediately from the same source. To remove however all objection to the want of authentication to the depositions of general Wilkinson, they produced a certificate from the department of state, proving that the justices of the peace before whom the depositions had been taken were legally commissioned. With regard to the principal of law assumed, that none other than the magistrate who examined the accused was competent to his arrest, it was pronounced altogether untenable.

Chief judge Cranch said it was the opinion of a majority of the court that Erick Bollman and Samuel Swartout should stand committed of the crime with which they were charged: and it was also the opinion of a majority of the court, that they ought not at present to be admitted to bail. He assigned at some length the reasons which had induced him to dissent from the opinion of his brethren.

Some conversation ensued between the court and the counsel, as well on the time of trial as on the competency of the circuit court of the district of Columbia to take cognizance of the crime charged to the accused. No decided opinions were expressed though the prevailing sentiment was that this court had jurisdiction of the case.

Mr. Lee, expressed a wish as well at the instance of the marshals of the accused, that the court would give directions whether they were to have the privilege of pen, ink and paper. The court declined giving any positive direction on the point. They expressed an opinion that they saw no objection to the indulgence, but rested it on the discretion of the marshals, of whose humanity and faithful performance of duty there could be no doubt.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4.

Alexandria, 3d Feb. 1807.

MR. SNOWDEN,

SIR, In your paper of the 2d inst. I observed with regret the death of Mr. C. R. Muschett announced. The eulogium of such a man as well to the memory of private worth as to that of public fame.

In the character of Mr. Muschett were blended all the attractive and endearing qualities of the heart. His duty as a son, his tenderness as a husband, and his character as a man, are worthy of imitation.

His friendship was strong and ardent; he never hesitated to sacrifice his own interest to promote that of his friend; uncommonly susceptible, his impressions were quick and permanent. To those alone who possessed his confidence the extent of his virtues can be known; and even to them who were but partially acquainted with his merits, his early death will be a subject of melancholy concern.

A Friend to the Deceased.

MARRIED, last evening by the Rev. Dr. Cooper, Mr. John Jamieson, baker of this town, to the amiable and accomplished Miss Violette La idler, eldest daughter of Mr. Laidler of Rose-Hall, Charles county, Maryland.

COMMUNICATION.

The marquis de Casa Yrujo, his Catholic majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, has instituted, through the means of the attorney general of the state, a prosecution against William Duane, editor of the Aurora, for his slanderous and calumnious publications on the marquis, endeavoring to make him appear either a traitor to his sovereign, or involved in the guilt of machinations and conspiracies against the U. S. or both. We know from a source to be relied on that the marquis has requested the attorney general to permit Duane to give the truth in evidence, should a bill be found by the grand jury.

[True American.]

To the politeness of a gentleman just arrived from St. Thomas, we are indebted for the latest intelligence from the republic of Hayti. The papers furnished, contain an account of operations down to the 27th December, inclusive—on which day the new republican constitution was adopted. This constitution, and the spirited address prefixed, shall be presented to the readers of the Gazette without further loss of time than is necessary for a correct translation. We have only time this evening to furnish the following:

On the 5th December, 1806, general Christophe appeared on the skirts of Port-au-Prince, with an army of about 10,000 men, to compel the body of people assembled together, to frame a constitution to appoint him emperor of Hayti. On his arrival there, he sent in a flag of truce, and desired to have a conference with general Pichon, commander at Port-au-Prince, who went out to meet him with what soldiers he had; and instead of a conference, as soon as Pichon came within gun shot of him, his men were fired on by Christophe: when a short engagement ensued, in which there were some officers and men killed on both sides. Pichon got into Port-au-Prince, and kept Christophe from committing any material depredations on the town: As his army was but few in number, he thought it most advisable to act only on the defensive, and not pursue Christophe, after having driven his troops out of town, at the end of which they had entered it.

Dispatches were immediately sent by Pichon to all parts of the South, where they have dominions for troops, arms, ammunition and provisions, and on the day following, there was not a mule to be found, or scarce a man that could bear arms in the town of Jacmel—all had repaired to Port-au-Prince, to join Pichon's army, carrying with them provisions and ammunition for the occasion. Several skirmishes took place in the course of eight or ten days—during which time, Christophe's army was within two or three miles of Port-au-Prince and had several times entered it, but was as often repulsed.

On the 10th of January, news was received at Jacmel, that Christophe had been defeated, and that the greater part of his soldiers revolted & joined the other side; that he had fled for his life; that Pichon's army was in pursuit of him, and no doubt prevailed, but they would overtake him in which case, death would inevitably be his lot, as they were determined to head him and establish a federal or republican government.

On the night of the 10th January, Jacmel was illuminated on the occasion.

English schooners Porcupine and Parkinson; Swedish brig Elizabeth, Selas Caulkeas, master; schooner Antoinette; Swedish brig Goody Catherine, and a schooner, both from Philadelphia.

Passed in the bay brig Actress, captain Murphy, bound up.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the Charleston Courier, dated Havana, Jan. 3. 1807.

By a late order issued by the Intendant of this city, it is required that all merchandize of every description, shipped for this port must be accompanied with a Spanish certificate of the consuls residing in the different ports; under the penalty of the seizure and confiscation of the goods and vessels. The time given to put this order in force, is to the 1st of March, but the vessels now in this port should they come back, without having every package so certified, will be liable to the penalty. Nothing is excepted but negroes. It might be well to make this known through your paper, for the government of all concerned."

Extract of a letter from Kingston, [Jam.] dated Dec. 5.

"The Resistance frigate, capt. Adam, arrived here lately, after having landed Don Mendoza, a Spanish Nobleman at Carthage. There are now on board a Portuguese and an English merchant. They are to proceed in her to La Vera Cruz, and ballast her with dollars. Capt. Adam is to receive ten thousand pound sterling, in lieu of freight, &c. There are many conjectures respecting this expedition. The admiral does not know whether the money is for individuals, or for the English or Spanish governments."

Judge alias Thompson apprehended some time ago for forgery on the bank of Baltimore, we understand received his sentence on Saturday last (seven years employment on the public roads.) It is stated that he pleads guilty. Balt. pup.

Captain Franklin, arrived at Philadelphia from Jamaica, has furnished Kingston papers to the 20th ult. inclusive. They give only the following. It will be seen that a British squadron, of five sail of the line, six frigates and 5000 troops had arrived at St. Bartholomews, and that Curacao surrendered to the British arms on the 2d Dec.

KINGSTON [J.] Dec. 20.

The schooner Betsey, Stephens, from St. Bartholomews bound to Alexandria, with cocoa, sugar, &c. detained on the 8th instant by the Heb. frigate, arrived on the 15th. She parted from the Heb. on the 9th instant, in lat. 25, long. 68; she had then in company with her the American brig Antelope, which she had detained a few days before. We have since learnt that the crew of this vessel, having overpowered the prize master and seamen put on board of her, had regained possession of her, and directed their course, it was supposed, for the American coast. Captain Stephens mentions that several vessels had anchored at St. Bartholomews from Barbadoes, Martinique and Guadalupe, bringing accounts of the arrival of five British ships of the line and six frigates at the first mentioned island, with a considerable number of troops on board (stated to be 5000) but for what destination was unknown.

The American schooner Sally, Cambie, from St. Thomas bound to Baltimore, with coffee, put into Port Royal the same evening, on account of sickness amongst the crew. On the 5th instant she spoke a Danish schooner from Curacao bound to St. Thomas, and was informed that the former island had surrendered to the British on the 2d inst.

Extract of a letter from Captain GARDNER, (received at Philadelphia) dated

"GIBRALTAR, Dec. 6.

"Yesterday arrived, the ship Mary, of Salem, from New-York. She was captured the 24th ult. by a Spanish privateer, and anchored under a Spanish battery. The captain, [Landers] not being willing to lose his property without a struggle thought proper to put the privateer's men below, after some resistance, in which 3 of his people being badly wounded, and the captain stabbed in the back, he arrived safe yesterday, and received every attention from the English ships of war in this harbor. The Spaniards plunder every vessel they fall in with, or carry them into port and condemn them."

PROCLAMATION OF THE GALIC EMEROR TO HIS ARMY.

SOLDIERS! You have justified my expectation, and worthily answered the confidence of the French people. You have supported privations and fatigues with as much courage as you have shown intrepidity and coolness in the midst of combats—You are the worthy defenders of my honor and crown and of the Great People—as long as you are animated with this spirit, nothing will be able to withstand you. The cavalry have vied with the infantry and artillery—I no longer know which part of the army to give the preference to. You are all good soldiers—These are the results of our labors.

One of the first military powers of Europe, who lately dared to propose to us a shameful capitulation, is annihilated. The forest and deserts of Franconia, the Saal and the Elbe, which our forefathers would not have crossed in seven years, we have crossed in seven days, and fought in the interval four engagements and a great battle. We have procured at Potsdam and Berlin the renown of our victories. We have made 60,000 prisoners—taken 85 stand of their colors, among which are those of the king of Prussia's guards, 600 pieces of cannon, three fortresses, and upwards of twenty generals. Nevertheless, more than one half of you regret not to have fired a musket shot. All the provinces of the Prussian monarchy, as far as the Oder, are in our power.

Soldiers! The Russians boast of coming to us—We will march to meet them, and thus spare them half the road—They shall again find Austerlitz in the heart of Prussia. A nation which has so soon forgotten the generosity we showed it after that battle, in which its emperor, court, and the wreck of its army were only indebted for their safety to the capitulation we granted them, is a nation which cannot successfully cope with us.

Nevertheless, whilst we march to meet the Russians, new armies found in the interior of the empire, come to take our place, in order to keep our conquests. My whole people have risen, indignant, at the unworthy capitulation which the Prussian ministers, in their delirium, proposed to us. Our roads and frontier towns, are full of conscripts, who burn to march in our footsteps. We will be no longer the sport of a treacherous peace, and we will not lay down our arms until we have obliged the English, those eternal enemies of our nation, to renounce the scheme of disturbing the continent, and the tyranny of the seas.

Soldiers, I cannot better express to you the sentiments I entertain for you, than by telling you that I bear in my heart the love you daily show me.

From our Imperial camp at Potsdam, October 26, 1806.

By order of the Emperor,

Signed, NAPOLEON.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4.

Alexandria, 3d Feb. 1807.

MR. SNOWDEN,

SIR,

In your paper of the 2d inst. I observed with regret the death of Mr. C. H. Moschetti announced. The eulogium of him is due as well to the memory of private worth as to that of public fame.

In the character of Mr. Moschetti were blended all the attractive and endearing qualities of the heart. His duty as a son, his tenderness as a husband, and his character as a man, are worthy of imitation.

His friendship was strong and ardent; he never hesitated to sacrifice his own interest to promote that of his friend; uncommonly susceptible, his impressions were quick and permanent. To those alone who possessed his confidence the extent of his virtues can be known; and even to them who were but partially acquainted with his merits, his early death will be a subject of melancholy concern.

A Friend to the Deceased.

MARRIED, last evening by the Rev. Dr. Conner, Mr. John Jamieson, baker of this town, to the amiable and accomplished Miss Violette La idler, eldest daughter of Mr. Laidler of Rose-Hall, Charles county, Maryland.

COMMUNICATION.

The marquis de Casa Yrujo, his Catholic majesty's envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary, has instituted, through the means of the attorney general of the state, a prosecution against William Duane, editor of the Aurora, for his slanderous and calumnious publications on the marquis, endeavoring to make him appear either a traitor to his sovereign, or involved in the guilt of machinations and conspiracies against the U. S. or both. We know from a source to be relied on that the marquis has requested the attorney general to permit Duane to give the truth in evidence should a bill be found by the grand jury.

[True American.]

To the politeness of a gentleman just arrived from St. Thomas, we are indebted for the latest intelligence from the republic of Hayti. The papers furnished, contain an account of operations down to the 27th December, inclusive—on which day the new republican constitution was adopted. This constitution, and the spirited address prefixed, shall be presented to the readers of the Gazette without further loss of time than is necessary for a correct translation. We have only time this evening to furnish the following:

On the 5th December, 1806, general Christophe appeared on the skirts of Port-au-Prince, with an army of about 10,000 men, to compel the body of people assembled together, to frame a constitution to appoint him emperor of Hayti. On his arrival there, he sent in a flag of truce, and desired to have a conference with gen. Pichon, commander at Port-au-Prince, who went out to meet him with what soldiers he had; and instead of a conference, as soon as Pichon came within gun shot of him, his men were fired on by Christophe: when a short engagement ensued, in which there were some officers and men killed on both sides. Pichon got into Port-au-Prince, and kept Christophe from committing any material depredations on the town: As his army was but few in number, he thought it most advisable to act only on the defensive, and not pursue Christophe, after having driven his troops out of town, at the end of which they had entered it.

Dispatches were immediately sent by Pichon to all parts of the South, where they have dominions for troops, arms, ammunition and provisions, and on the day following, there was not a mule to be found, or scarce a man that could bear arms in the town of Jacmel—all had repaired to Port-au-Prince, to join Pichon's army, carrying with them provisions and ammunition for the occasion. Several skirmishes took place in the course of eight or ten days—during which time, Christophe's army was within two or three miles of Port-au-Prince and had several times entered it, but was as often repulsed.

On the 10th of January, news was received at Jacmel, that Christophe had been defeated, and that the greater part of his soldiers revolted & joined the other side; that he had fled for his life; that Pichon's army were in pursuit of him, and no doubt prevailed, but they would overtake him, in which case, death would inevitably be his lot, as they were determined to behead him and establish a federal or republican government.

On the night of the 10th January, Jacmel was illuminated on the occasion.

English schooners Porcupine and Parkinson; Swedish brig Elizabeth, Selas Caulkens, master; schooner Autoicette; Swedish brig Goody Catherine, and a schooner, both from Philadelphia.

Passed in the bay brig Actress, captain Murphy, bound up.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the Charleston Courier, dated Havana, Jan. 3. 1807.

By a late order issued by the Intendant of this city, it is required that all merchandise of every description, shipped for this port must be accompanied with a Spanish certificate of the consuls residing in the different ports; under the penalty of the seizure and confiscation of the goods and vessels. The time given to put this order in force, is to the 1st of March, but the vessels now in this port should they come back, without having every package so certified, will be liable to the penalty. Nothing is excepted but negroes. It might be well to make this known through your paper, for the government of all concerned."

Extract of a letter from Kingston, [Jam.] dated Dec. 5.

"The Resistance frigate, capt. Adam, arrived here lately, after having landed Don Mendez, a Spanish Nobleman at Carthagena. There are now on board a Portuguese and an English merchant—They are to proceed in her to La Vera Cruz, and ballast her with dollars. Capt. Adam is to receive ten thousand pound sterling, in lieu of freight, &c. There are many conjectures respecting this expedition. The admiral does not know whether the money is for individuals, or for the English or Spanish governments."

Judge alias Thompson apprehended some time ago for forgery on the bank of Baltimore, we understand received his sentence on Saturday last (seven years employment on the public roads.) It is stated that he pleads guilty. Balt. pap.

Captain Franklin, arrived at Philadelphia from Jamaica, has furnished Kingston papers to the 20th ult. inclusive. They give only the following. It will be seen that a British squadron of five sail of the line, six frigates and 5000 troops had arrived at St. Bartholomews, and that Curacao surrendered to the British arms on the 2d Dec.

KINGSTON [J.] Dec. 20.

The schooner Betsey, Stephens, from St. Bartholomews bound to Alexandria, with cocoa, sugar, &c. detained on the 8th instant by the Heb. frigate, arrived on the 15th. She parted from the Heb. on the 9th instant, in lat. 25, long. 68; she had then in company with her the American brig Antelope, which she had detained a few days before. We have since learnt that the crew of this vessel, having overpowered the prize master and seamen put on board of her, had regained possession of her, and directed their course, it was supposed, for the American coast. Captain Stephens mentions that several vessels had anchored at St. Bartholomews from Barbadoes, Martinique and Guadaloupe, bringing accounts of the arrival of five British ships of the line and six frigates at the first mentioned island, with a considerable number of troops on board (stated to be 5000) but for what destination was unknown.

The American schooner Sally, Cambie, ton, from St. Thomas bound to Baltimore, with coffee, put into Port Royal the same evening, on account of sickness amongst the crew. On the 5th instant she spoke a Danish schooner from Curacao bound to St. Thomas, and was informed that the former island had surrendered to the British on the 2d inst.

Extract of a letter from Captain GARDNER, (received at Philadelphia) dated

"GIBRALTAR, Dec. 6.

"Yesterday arrived, the ship Mary, of Salem, from New-York. She was captured the 24th ult. by a Spanish privateer, and anchored under a Spanish battery. The captain, [Landers] not being willing to lose his property without a struggle thought proper to put the privateer's men below, after some resistance, in which 3 of his people being badly wounded, and the captain stabbed in the back, he arrived safe yesterday, and received every attention from the English ships of war in this harbor. The Spaniards plunder every vessel they fall in with, or carry them into port and condemn them."

VALUABLE LANDS,

To be Sold very Cheap.

I WISH to sell my Mill Tract of Land, situate on Back-Lick and Indian-Runs, about six miles from the town of Alexandria; containing about eleven hundred acres. On this tract are two plantations besides the mill farm—on the latter there is a very good mill, in which are one pair of burr, and one pair of cullen stones, with elevators, &c. complete for merchant work—a distillery convenient to the mill, with four stills and every necessary utensil in complete order—a dwelling-house, kitchen, barn, with stables under it to accommodate 20 stalls, with every other out house requisite on a farm—a very good garden, an orchard of about 2500 trees of the choicest fruits this country can afford. There is about 300 or 400 acres of the tract cleared, the remainder in woods and a great part of it heavily timbered; about 30 or 40 acres of meadow, and nearly 300 acres more may be made on the bottoms adjoining the two runs.

ALSO,

One other tract of one hundred acres, about two miles from Alexandria, part of the Cliesh Tract, and adjoining the lands of Messieurs John C. Herbert, Robert Patton, and John Richter, the Mount-Vernon road running through it. This tract is mostly in woods, and conveniently situated for country seats. If these lands should be sold at private sale, (which I would prefer) I will take in payment, if more convenient to the purchasers, stock of any of the banks from Richmond to New-York, or any kind of stock of the United States.

If they are not sold before Friday the first day of May next, the Mill Tract will, on that day, be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder—and on the following day the Cliesh Lands will be sold in like manner. The Mill Tract will be divided into three or four farms and sold subject to a lease of four and an half years from the first day of July last. The Cliesh Tract will be divided into lots of 10 or 20 acres each. If sold at public auction the terms will be made known on the days of sale.
